

SWIFT ACTION ON REPEAL OF ROOSEVELT IS EXPECTED

QUESTIONS TO BE SUBMITTED TO STATES NEXT WINTER

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Correspondent

Washington, Oct. 26 (NS)—Repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, with a provision prohibiting return of saloons, may be submitted to the states next winter in event Franklin D. Roosevelt is elected President.

It was indicated today by an International News Service poll, which revealed a two-thirds majority in both House and Senate would favor submission of a repeal amendment if Roosevelt wins.

Re-election of President Hoover on the other hand, might postpone repeal indefinitely through defection of dry Southern Democrats who would regard Roosevelt's defeat as a repudiation of the Democratic repeal plan.

ANNOYING ISSUE

"If Roosevelt wins, the Democrats will try to legalize beer at the December short session and seek submission of a new amendment, repealing the Eighteenth Amendment but protecting dry states," said one prominent Roosevelt leader.

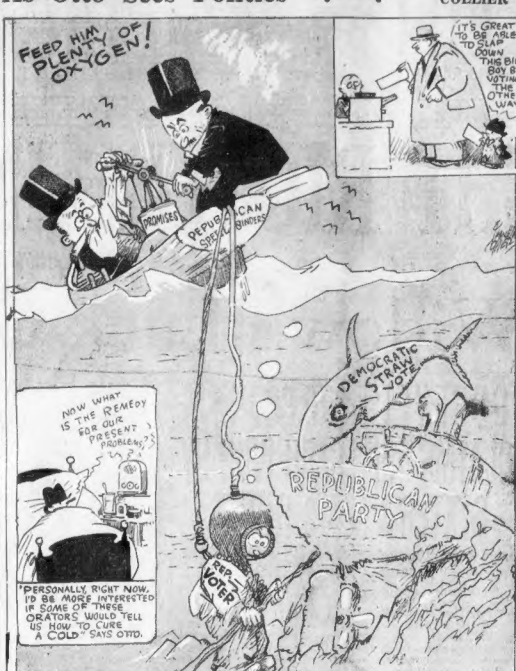

"If this can be accomplished it would be perfectly agreeable to Mr. Hoover, as it would remove an annoying issue from his administration."

"If neither is accomplished next winter and Governor Roosevelt is elected, he will recommend both in his first message to Congress. And that procedure would merely delay enactment of other measures whenever the new Congress meets. So he would prefer to have both measures adopted next winter by the present Congress."

A Roosevelt victory would give the repeaters a clear two-thirds majority in the present House. Since a clear two-thirds majority voted against repeal at the last session, since have declared themselves for the Democratic repeal plan.

In the Senate, where 53 senators went on record last July as favoring submission of the Glass repeal plan, a clear two-thirds majority of 64 votes can be expected if Roosevelt is elected in addition to those voting or paired for the

HOOPER CARRIES BATTLE TO WEST AGAIN

President May Visit Boston Before Going to Home in California

By ROBERT BARRY

Washington, Oct. 26.—For the third time in as many weeks, President Hoover is going to battle for the Middle West.

He will speak in Indianapolis Friday night, it was announced today, returning at once to Washington.

Efforts to have him continue the trip on to Springfield, Ill., failed. He will defer his battle for Illinois until the final week of the campaign.

In going to Indianapolis, Hoover again will fight for Ohio and West Virginia, both of which he covered on last week's journey to Detroit. It will be his third visit to Ohio in as many excursions since Washington and emphasizes the importance he attaches to winning the 28 Ohio electoral votes.

The President is expected to carry his higher tariff doctrine to Indiana, where Senator Watson is struggling for re-election almost exclusively on that issue.

Hoover will speak in New York next Monday night and the speculation grew today he might proceed to Boston, strike westward, appearing in Chicago, Denver and possibly Salt Lake City and Seattle. The President would close his campaign in a series of addresses from his Philadelphia home should the trip to the continent be abandoned.

Hoover's trip to Indianapolis is expected to take him through Keokuk, Graceland, Clarkburg, W. Va., several small Southeastern Ohio towns, then Cincinnati, Hamilton and half dozen Indiana towns, including Connersville and Rushville, the home town of Senator Watson.

James Hall Faces Court Now as Wife's Charges

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 26.—James Hall, of stage and screen fame, will not face court on his wife's non-support charge until November 4.

The former officer of the 80th division in a Municipal Court jury yesterday following his arrest two weeks ago on the complaint of his wife, Mrs. Irene Gordon Hall, who is charged with neglecting to support him, was released today.

James Hall, who is a native of private life is James J. Hall, who is charged with neglecting to support him, was released today.

The case was continued until November 4, pending outcome of an extradition hearing by Gov. Humphreys, who is to have his husband sent to New Haven for trial.

Mrs. Siegfried Roebing Likely to Ask Divorce

Reno, Nev., Oct. 26.—Siegfried Roebing, noted woman of the West, has been living in Reno for the past two weeks.

Her identity was discovered by the manager of the Desert Inn at Pyramid Lake about 30 miles from here, where she has been residing.

It is believed that she will soon seek a divorce from her husband, who is the grandson of the builder of the stockyard.

According to reports she has retained a prominent New Jersey magistrate, as her attorney, but she could not be reached for verification. She also declined to say whether the divorce rumor was true.

Prof. Fisher Attacks Plan to Repeal Prohibition

Falmouth, Oct. 26.—Prof. S. Fisher, professor of economics at Yale, believes that the liquor trade alone will ruin the country.

"I am before the Pittsburg, Kan., Council of the Methodist Episcopal Church," Prof. Fisher said.

"They tell me that repeal will create employment, but I believe it will only do harm to the country."

Prof. Fisher said the soft drink, ice cream, and auto industries and the like.

ASKS SMITH FOR NET TALK

William H. Mitchell, chairman of the Liberal Civic League, which supported Alfred E. Smith in 1928, and which is working for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, sent Smith a telegram today, urging the former governor to stress the Democratic repeal plan in his Boston Arena speech tomorrow evening. In part, the telegram said:

"Thousands of honest uncorrupted republicans have been misled by Republican press and Republican strategists. You can clear the understanding of this issue if you stress in your speech the necessity for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to support Democratic candidates for president, vice-president and Congress."

In the second quarter of 1932, deaths increased and births fell off in France. The surplus of births over deaths for the quarter was 11,989. A year ago it was 15,002. However, the French rely on QUALITY not QUANTITY.

In addition, population does not mean much now that the surplus has come to distribute poison gas and explosive bombs.

Ten thousand firms, such as France produces in first-class, swart airplanes, could do more than five million dollars worth of business back and forth like rabbits on the surface of the earth.

JURY DRAWN IN BARK TRIAL

It took only half an hour today to obtain a jury for trial of Joseph Stone of Brockton, former vice-president of the closed Boston-Continental National Bank, in Federal court on charges of conspiracy to misappropriate amounts of $200,000 in other credits.

Two others indicted on the conspiracy charge, Percy Cliff Belmont and Arthur Cronin of Natick, pleaded guilty yesterday. The charges relate to sale of millions of dollars of promissory notes.

Whether the alleged acts were lawful or unlawful, they were committed in an unlawful manner, said Asst. U. S. Atty. John J. Walsh, Jr.

Stone, we will show, received two loans of $25,000 each from the bank, and these were approved by the late Terrell M. Ragan as president.

"These loans were supposed to be secured by casualty bonds for one year. We will show that these two bonds disappeared from the bank."

"We also intend to show that a loan of $20,000 was made to Arthur Cronin and that Percy Cliff executed a $20,000 bond. Later Mr. Ragan signed a note releasing all obligations of the bank."

Postal Income Drops Despite High Rates

Washington, Oct. 26 (AP)—The postoffice department has reported to Chairman Reed of the House post committee, that although revenue for the fiscal year ending September 30 was $1,000,000 more than last year, they indicate the higher postal rates have actually brought in additional revenue over what might have been raised otherwise in a postal automobile.

LYNN MAN HELD FOR HOLIDAY IN PORTLAND

Portland, Me., Oct. 26 (AP)—Gordon Taylor, 27, alias Carl Treddway, of Lynn, Mass., was held in $2,000 bail today after he had pleaded guilty to charges of armed robbery, larceny and assault.

He was arrested Monday night after two men had held up Charles Katz, a grocer, slugged him, robbed his cash register of $19 and fled in a stolen automobile.

Kills Snake 6 Feet Long in Danvers

Basil Crowell, employee of a filling station near the Topfield farm grounds on the Newburyport turnpike, has been dubbed "Crowley-the-snake-killer."

Today he killed one of the largest snakes ever seen in this vicinity in Valley road between Topfield and Danvers. The reptile, weighing 25 pounds, is six feet four inches in length. It is yellow in color with black markings and its head was not been determined.

Crowell said he killed it with a heavy stone. After skinning the snake he placed it on exhibition at the station.

MAJOR N. Y. LEADERS

Mayor Curlew was in conference today in New York with officials of the Democratic National Committee.

The Mayor left Boston last night after Democratic leaders had invited him to confer with them today. Plans for the Mayor's tour of Eastern Pennsylvania are expected to be discussed. His hurried departure caused considerable speculation in Democratic circles and some were of the opinion it might have been bearing on the fact that the Mayor is to be principal speaker. The Mayor is expected to return late tonight.

Curley to Play Big Part

The Smith entourage will leave New York at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. He will arrive at 2 p. m. in Providence, and will there deliver an address in the infant's regiment armory. Present plans, in accordance with a statement from Boston by train at 4:20 p. m. Because of demands from cities and towns along the route, this schedule may be changed to a journey by automobile. On arrival in Boston, Smith and his party will be quartered at the Copple Plaza Hotel.

At the Arena, ex-Gov. Smith will begin speaking at 10 p. m., and the speech will be broadcast by a national hookup throughout the country.

Chairman Maynard also made the significant announcement today, significant because of Republican efforts to raise friction in the Democratic ranks, that Mayor Curlew is to play an important role in the Boston campaign beginning next week, when the Massachusetts Republican committee opens a daily nonstop speaking forum at 329 Washington street.

MURDERIST SAVES 11 ARRESTED FIRES IN TAUNTON

STATE POLICE PLOT TO BURN FAMILY

House Saturated With Oil and Phone Wire Cut; Maniac Is Blamed; Barn Total Loss

Taunton, Oct. 26.—An apparent attempt to cremate 11 persons asleep in a farmhouse in Berkeley was balked today by a passing motorist, who aroused Arthur Emery, his wife, seven children and two farmhands in the nick of time.

Investigation later by inspectors from the State fire marshal's office showed the steps and porch of the house had been soaked with kerosene. The telephone wires were cut to delay calls for help.

The house was saved after the flames had caused considerable damage, but a large barn, which was also fired, was destroyed.

Eight cows, a bull and a horse were killed.

Allen Talbot discovered the flames licking about the front of the house and smashed to the rear door to arouse the occupants.

A bucket brigade was formed to fight the fire in the house, but a moment later the barn burst into flames. Leaving Mrs. Emery and the children at the house, the men ran to the barn and saved the horses and cattle.

Emery told Fire Inspector John N. Sullivan that he knew of no enemies, and the authorities believe the fire may have been set by a maniac. Lieut. George O. Mansfield of the fire marshal's office said there was no doubt the fire was incendiary.

It is believed the fire was set by a maniac who had been drinking.

BOSTON MISSION FOLK FLEE

Fochow, China, Oct. 26 (AP).—American and British missionaries in the northwestern region of Peking province are hastily withdrawing toward this city as a result of the advance of Communist outlaws from Kiangsi province, whence they were driven by National government troops.

It was understood the two American groups principally involved are missionaries of the Congregational Church with headquarters at Boston and the Northern Methodist Missionaries with headquarters in New York. They have established numerous missionary stations in northern Peking.

Two British missions have been abandoned, and it is understood the American Methodist property at Keping has fallen into the hands of Peking provincial troops.

MAD'S DIARY IN LOVE SUIT

A diary kept in the Estonian language by a maid, was the feature of evidence offered in a $200,000 alienation of affection suit before Judge McEllen in Federal court today.

Warren M. Hein, of White Plains, N. Y., is seeking redress from Alexander Libby, of County st., New Bedford, for allegedly stealing the love of his wife, Mrs. "Arren Carr, Hein.

Miss Avell Madison, who was employed by Mrs. Hein as maid, read from her diary the dates when Libby is alleged to have gone to the Hein summer cottage at Foxcroft in 1930.

Mrs. Eleanor Schneider, a New York business woman, testified she met Mrs. Hein in 1929, and that she had seen her several times in New York and believed Libby to be her husband.

On one occasion, she said, she left Libby and Mrs. Hein at 11 p. m. in their suite in a New York hotel.

Miss Madison, in answer to a question by Judge McEllen, denied there was any significance in keeping a diary in Estonian. She said she always kept a diary and that Estonian is her native tongue.

Before the trial could be started, it was necessary to collect eight jurors from the street, as the panel had been exhausted.

Clothing Sales Jump as Autumn Comes

Washington, Oct. 26 (INS).—From necessity, the people started to buy clothing in August and September, and made an important contribution to the increase in business activity, according to the Federal Reserve Board's monthly review of commerce and industry issued today.

"The industrial production index made the largest advance from one month to another for autumn since 1928. On the basis of the 1928-1932 average as 100, the board's index was 88 in September, against 60 in August, and 58 the low point in July.

Herriot Sees Debt Talk after Election

CAROL REFUSES TO EXILE HIS LADY LOVE

King in Long Tryst With Lupescu and Decides He Can't Give Her Up for Helen

Copyright, 1932, by International News Service

Sinala, Rumania, Oct. 26 (INS).—In their romantic chateau on the pine-strewn hills of the lower Carpathians, King Carol II of Rumania and Magda Lupescu met today, apparently to pledge their love anew.

Secretly, and accompanied only by two close associates, Carol moored from Bucharest to discuss with his little-haired favorite the conditions imposed by his divorced wife, Princess Helen, before she will consent to a reconciliation.

The chief condition is that Mrs. Lupescu, Carol's companion during his five years in exile and ever afterward, must leave the country, stepping down from her position as "unwedded queen of Rumania."

WON'T EXILE HER This condition, it was reported, Carol decided to reject flatly and unequivocally. His decision was reached during his meeting with the red-haired beauty whose association with Carol has split the Rumanian people.

All other conditions, however, Carol is ready to accept. He will, it is understood, allow Princess Helen to share the custody of their son, Crown Prince Michael.

He will restore the royal prerogative he stripped from her at the time of their estrangement. Carol has already demanded for her own share the palace in Bucharest she has demanded for her own share.

LUPESCU MORE ALLURING But it is understood he will insist that Mrs. Lupescu, daughter of a countryman and divorced wife of a cavalry officer, remain by his side.

Col. Dumitrescu and M. Gatoski, two of his chief aides, conversed a long time with Mrs. Lupescu. When they departed, she took her usual walk in Sinala park, where she was seen by many of the Rumanian people.

The effect of Carol's decision upon the reconciliation efforts cannot be guessed, Princess Helen. It was understood, however, that Mrs. Lupescu, leaving the country before she would resume formal court life with her husband and be crowned queen.

16 Wounded on Opening Day of New York Hunting Season

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 26 (AP).—New York State hospitals and physicians are busy today dressing wounds of many of the Army of hunters who charged into the woods yesterday at the opening of the fall hunting season in New York.

An Associated Press survey shows that although injuries to hunters were numerous in all parts of the state, there were no fatalities. Sixteen men had been reported injured early today as reports of accidents in remote woods and fields continued to come in. At least eight were sent by other hospitals. Some of the injuries were serious.

Lured out by fine weather and prospects of one of the best hunting seasons in many years, hunters swarmed to the forests before the sun was well up, the injured already were being taken to hospitals. Not all of the injuries were from gunshot.

Neu, 24, of Danville, was cut about the eye when a pheasant shattered the windshield of his automobile as he was on his way to work.

FIGHT EFFORT TO BREAK LEASES

Attorneys for Boston landlords announced their intention today of fighting the attempt on the part of the trustee in bankruptcy of the United Clear Stores Company to disaffirm leases on Washington st.

Irving Kurtz, referee, authorized the Irving Trust Company, New York, trustee, to disaffirm the lease at 451 Washington st. John F. Wright and Robert E. Gordon, Boston attorneys, charged that "there had been a fraudulent attempt to invoke the offices of the bankruptcy court to get rid of disaffirmable leases" at 202, 277 and 367 Washington st.

The hearing on the trustees' motion, which is being held in New York, was adjourned until next Monday.

Ukelele Leads Long Romance Into Divorce Court

Mrs. Driella Woodbury Lawrence, 25-year-old Westchester chaperone, met her husband when she was six years old but a ukulele brought after they were married ruined their long standing romance and led to a divorce given her today.

The pretty, red-haired mother of a four-year-old daughter was wed in Fred J. Lawrence in May, 1926. Families of the two had moved from Plattsburgh, N. Y., and still live nearby next door.

"I was in church that night, and I was in church that night," Mrs. Lawrence testified today. "I was in church that night, and I was in church that night."

"The ukulele was the cause of our divorce," Mrs. Lawrence said. "I was in church that night, and I was in church that night."

BACK TO HER NEW CHARGE

Bradley's Must Make Own Pact

Testimony that they separated by agreement lost a separate support fight in Middlesex probate court today for Mrs. Hazel R. Bradley of Newton, estranged wife of Ernest H. Bradley, Canadian aviator in the World War.

Dismissal of Mrs. Bradley's petition came after she had testified she would be willing to live with Bradley again "if he wanted to be."

Bradley testified he had been over-indulgent in liquor and as a father should be to his children.

In dismissing her petition, Judge Leggat also dismissed one brought by Bradley for modification of a court order of last March, directing him to pay her $30 a week and the mortgage, interest and taxes on their home.

Disposal of the petition placed Bradley and Mrs. Bradley back in their pre-court status as a disagreeing husband and wife who must come to an agreement as to how much he must pay to support her and two children.

Bradley testified he has been paying his wife only $15 a week since June, and explained that his firm's contract, which gave him $5000 a year and expenses, had been cancelled in June and that he now must pay his own expenses.

He denied that he drinks to excess, and said that his liquor consumption now is less than half a pint a week, and that under the direction of a doctor, who is still treating him for a bullet wound received during the war.

G. O. P. LEADERS DRIVE TO HOLD GRIP ON STATE

Alarmed over the drive of their Democratic opponents to carry the state for Roosevelt and Garret, Republican leaders of the state, it was learned today, are sending frantic appeals to Washington for President Hoover's appearance here in a last minute effort to stem the tide of what they believe is impending defeat.

The Republicans have secured Tremont Temple for a rally the Saturday night before election and are hoping that the President will be able to come to Boston on that date.

As a counter-offensive to the Democratic invasion of headline speakers including former Gov. Smith, Gov. Roosevelt and Newton D. Baker, the Republicans are hurrying up their heaviest guns in the persons of cabinet officers, governors of neighboring states and national celebrities.

Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills will speak at Worcester next Friday night. On Thursday evening, Secretary of Labor William N. Doak will make the initial speech in Brockton and the same night Congressman James M. Beck of Pennsylvania will address a rally in the Boston City Club.

Gov. William A. Youngman, Republican candidate for governor, in a radio speech, opened up another line of attack upon Gov. Ely by accusing him of power trust and "other bare corporate" affiliations.

He again struck at the governor for "extravagance." He said the governor increased the state tax by $2,700,000 more than was the tax in the last year of Gov. Allen's administration.

He charged that the tax should have been $750,000 more in order to meet 1932 obligations on his 1932 borrowing obligations. In order to meet it, he charged the governor "juggled the books."

'IT'S NEVER TRUE,' CAL WRITES AMERICAN

CALVIN COOLIDGE
PORTSMOUTH
MASSACHUSETTS

Plymouth, Vt., Oct. 24, 1932.

City Editor,
Boston American,
Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir:-

I never heard of any proposal that I should be President of New York University until I received your wire.

If you newspaper men would state each time that my name is proposed for some position that there is no foundation for the report you would always be right and it would save me no end of trouble and correspondence.

With kindest regards, I am

Very truly yours,

Calvin Coolidge

Calvin Coolidge wrote the letter shown here to the city editor of the Boston Evening American in response to a telegram asking him about the New York University report. His "blanket denial" of reports, past, present and future, as to him accepting positions, indicates the former President doesn't choose a job. The report had him heading N. Y. U.

BLANKET DENIAL BY COOLIDGE

If Calvin Coolidge is being contemplated as the next president of New York University it is all news to him, he told the Boston Evening American today.

Mr. Coolidge, from his old home in Plymouth, Vt., not only denied the report, but gave newspapermen carte blanche to deny future reports that he is about to take any position.

"I have never heard of any proposal that I should be president of New York University until I received your wire," wrote former President Coolidge from Vermont.

"If you newspaper men would state each time that my name is proposed for some position that there is no foundation for the report you would always be right and it would save me no end of trouble and correspondence."

The report was that Coolidge had been approached to head New York University on the coming retirement of Chancellor Elmer E. Brown.

Tinsley Plans 350

Worcester, Oct. 26.—John F. Tinsley, chairman of the community development committee of the New England Council, has announced a goal of 350 taxpayers' associations in as many New England cities and towns by March 1, next year, and made public the formation of an executive committee for taxpayers' association in Massachusetts, headed by Alfred W. Donovan of Rockland.

Parties Spent $15,000 Each in Campaign

Augusta, Me., Oct. 26.—The two major parties spent $15,000 each in last month's state election campaign, reports filed with the secretary of state, and made public showed.

Fatal Crash Blamed to Frat Initiation

No. Andover, Oct. 26.—A Tufts college fraternity initiation was blamed by police here today for the fatal head-on crash on the bypass on the Andover-Reading road last night in which a heading man was killed and another probably fatally injured.

Police are probing the story told them by Douglas Glennie, Tufts student and driver of the other car in the crash, that he was dazed at the time of the accident as a result of a hike from Gloucester to Andover, imposed on him and other students as the climax to initiation rites.

Martin Insult Gets

"Mystery" Trunk Toronto, Oct. 26.—Martin J. Insult, awaiting extradition proceedings here on charges in Chicago in connection with the failure of Insult utilities, suggested that his receipt of a trunk from the States should be "put down as a mystery."

"I'd put it down as a trunk mystery," he said. "Build what you like about it, but leave me alone. It was sent to me from my home in the States and contained many number of things. Good day."

French and German Experts to Speak

As a feature of Armistice week observances, the Greater Boston Federation of Churches will hold a public meeting at John Hancock Hall, St. James St., the evening of Nov. 14, which will be addressed by representatives of France and Germany.

Prof. Andre Philip, professor at the University of Lyons, will speak on "France and World Understanding" while Dr. F. Sigmund Schuller will give the German view in the same topic.

FIRE RAZES INN IN GEORGETOWN

Georgetown, Oct. 26.—The Gray Goose Inn at the Georgetown-Boston line was destroyed by fire early today and authorities believe the blaze to have been the work of an incendiary.

A dance hall was included in the inn property, as well as a small store and gasoline filling station all valued at a total of $5000.

According to George Buswell of North Andover, who operates the filling station, when he closed the place at 1 a. m. everything was in order. Flames were seen shooting from the closed inn five hours later.

Because no hydrants were available, firemen were compelled to lay more than 200 feet of hose to a brook in an attempt to extinguish the flames.

Lodge Memorial Dedicated Today

Dedication of the Henry C. Lodge Memorial on the Boston grounds takes place at 9 o'clock this afternoon. David Walsh is the orator.

Governor Ely accepts the inscription on behalf of the Commonwealth, and the presentation to the memorial will be made by Senator L. Campbell of the Governors Council. Bishop Lawrence does the invocation.

BORAH MUM ON HOW HE'LL VOTE AT ELECTION

Boise, Idaho, Oct. 23 (AP)—Senator William E. Borah, independent Republican of Idaho, told the Associated Press today his vote for President Hoover, "will be determined as the issues develop."

"I have never at any time made any reference as to how I should vote," he said.

The chairman of the Senate foreign relations, in a series of speeches in Idaho, has discussed national and international affairs from an independent standpoint, and has campaigned for the reelection of his Republican colleague, Senator John Thomas.

Senator Borah's statement today was made in commenting on a news dispatch quoting him as saying he would vote for President Hoover but would not stump for him.

RATES SET FOR MAYONNAISE

Seventy-five leading mayonnaise manufacturers of the United States last night elected Charles P. McCormick, president of McCormick & Co. of Baltimore, as president for the fourth time, at their convention in the Hotel Kemmerer.

Charles A. Mahlig, general manager of the mayonnaise division of Blue Plate Foods, of New Orleans, was elected vice-president. Secretary G. C. Point of Kraft-Phelps Corp., Chicago, and Treasurer Jay Gould of Best Foods, New York, were re-elected.

Today's program called for voting on resolutions for stabilizing prices, eliminating unfair competition, improving quality and reducing housewives to new uses of mayonnaise.

A feature of last night's meeting and banquet was presentation of amplified phonograph records of speeches by Hoover, Roosevelt and Thomas, and a straw vote was taken, in which the candidates finished in that order.

Benjamin Albrit, of Epstein, Reynolds & Harris, Chicago, is chairman of the general committee of the convention, and John E. Cain of Boston, president of John E. Cain Co., Cambridge, is chairman of publicity.

How often that cry springs to women's lips. They see themselves denuded with fatigue only a few hours after arising; they see youth leaving their faces although they are still young; they see grace and buoyancy vanishing. They know that nothing is really the matter—nothing except ordinary, unscientific shoes.

Arch Preserver Shoes are scientifically designed to cooperate with the foot. To support the body naturally on the natural support base. To let the foot function as freely as it were bare.

Arch Preserver Shoes have a rigid steel arch that never sags, a special metatarsal feature that lifts the forward arch, a perfectly flat tread to prevent crowding of toes and squeezing of nerves and veins.

REPUBLICAN PROSPECTS
TAXI'S NO COWBOY

'Erbie is putting on a thrilling rodeo or cowboy jubilee. We see 'Erbie's playmate Stimmy doing his best to master a bucking broncho. Our old friend Bolivar is trying to ride a Wet horse and a Dry horse which persist in going in opposite directions. 'Erbie's chief lieutenant, Sandy, is endeavoring to control a taxi steer, and his little playmate Taxi has just been chucked off the back of a particular unruly horse. A rodeo is supposed to give you a glimpse of the great open spaces where men are—oh, well, you know all about it, ten gallon hats, shaggy trousers, and so on. And everybody riding. Cowboys can't walk very well. A cowboy couldn't live in a house because he would need a horse to ride from one room to another. Still, it's all in the way you look at it. And come to think of it, it's—

To Be Continued.

The Political War Front in Mass.

By JOHN T. LAMBERT

Gov. Joseph B. Ely today turned his eyes to Norfolk County's Lantow. Gov. Youngman to Newton, Marlboro and the Middlesex villages and Ely's tour of the Cape was "satisfactory, beyond our highest expectations," he said.

"Everywhere we received assurances of support from Republicans who will vote not only for me but for Gov. Roosevelt and the entire Democratic State ticket."

"They are not different from the people of rural Maine. They want a change, and are going to have it."

YOUNGMAN BURY AS BEES

YOUNGMAN, Youngman was as young as a bee, or two or three bees. He gathered with his campaign advisors in Boston today and framed the speeches he will deliver tonight via air and to Republican rallies in the Western and Middlesex Counties. Gov. W. Tudor Gardner will be the added attraction tonight, although he is not expected to reveal why Maine left the G. O. P.

His successor, Governor-elect Louis J. Brand, will put the dust of Massachusetts on his shoes at about the time Gardner is shaking it off. Brand is coming here for the Smith rally in the Boston Arena, where the vast crowd will have a chance to see just what the Democratic governor of Maine looks like.

DOAK'S TOUGH JOB

The Republicans are turning a few big guns into the Bay State. Treasury Secretary Ogden Mills is to speak at Worcester noon, while Labor Secretary Doak will be in Boston tomorrow attempting to wear the trades unionists back to the Hoover fold.

Mr. Doak's job is as tough as the pitcher who faces Babe Ruth with the bases loaded. The Massachusetts A. F. of L. has endorsed Roosevelt. President James T. McLaughlin presided over the labor rally for Roosevelt in Faneuil Hall, while Secretary-Treasurer Robert J. Watt is today telling the folks around the state that Casper G. Bacon should be overwhelmingly re-elected for "his cold, merciless and reactionary record" on labor legislation. Not since the days of William L. Douglas have the labor vote turned so fully to the Democratic party.

OTHER RALLIES

Along the Cape, the Republican chiefs are talking trade. They are willing to let Youngman go overseas if they can get votes for Hoover or Bacon in return. Mr. Youngman, the soon-to-be-disposed of "little chiefs" for whom he has little love. They return the compliment.

The Democrats will be in Norfolk County tonight, hitting a dozen rallies, which include Quincy, Braintree and the Bridgewater. Joseph P. Tumulty, who was secretary to Wilson, will be with them.

There is a Democratic club in Boston today, strange as that may seem. Miss Eleanor Fahey knows she happened down there this afternoon to tell them why they should work industriously for Roosevelt. Ely "and all the others" are not to be invited.

Get a good time at our estate, but be sure you can't keep it, and later in the evening the real estate business of the chamber is on.

crowd in an attempt to escape the police.

With their leaders seized, the rest of the rioters fled the scene. Those arrested were: Miss Alice Ward, 24, West Street, Boston; Mrs. Frances Piatkowski, 45, and her husband, Philip, 23, of Underwood st.; Jerry Belmont, 26, of Gardner st.; John Bule, 27, of Stuart st.; Lawrence Patis, 2, of Gardner st.; Larry Vico, 19, of Newton st.; Frank Belmont, 21, of Bridge st.; Thomas Conte, 53, of Harold st.; James Martin, 22, of Lincoln st.; and Joseph Patis, of Adams st. All except Miss Ward live in Newton.

The trouble today has its inception in a week when a delegation visited Mayor Weeks, claiming to represent the newly formed "Newton Council of the Unemployed."

COME DAY AHEAD

When the mayor informed the delegation that all their demands were being met, they left the Newton Welfare Board, they said they would furnish him with names of starving families.

When they did present a list of 50 families alleged to have been neglected, they were asked to return tomorrow when the mayor expected to have had their complaints fully investigated. "They came today instead."

Mayor Weeks, after the riot, said: "Newton has, since the beginning of the depression, always cared for the unemployed and will continue to do so. Furthermore, we do not need the assistance of outside agitators whose sole object, as the demonstration here this morning proved, it to make trouble."

While police had not completed their looking of the prisoners, it is anticipated that all will be charged with rioting a riot. Additional charges of assaulting officers will be placed against some.

MR. COUGHLIN TELLS IT

chance named Oswald. But he didn't write letters. I thought of many other letters. Mr. Coughlin had written which did not make any loud noise when dropped and it occurred to me this must be a very special letter. I went on the hunt for Mr. Coughlin.

"Mr. Coughlin," I said, having bearded him in his den, "you have written Communists. I have a letter which makes a loud noise when dropped. Will you tell me what it is in that letter?"

"My boy," said he, "I will come here."

He beckoned me to the window and pointed to an elderly fellow standing at the curb.

"How much," he asked, "would you give for that car on the hoof as it stands?"

"But I do not want to buy any car," I said.

"I drive," said Mr. Coughlin, to the police station. I see the chief. I say, I have got my car and they have got my watch and it is time for this chiseling racket to stop. There is a pun there if you are quick enough. I said, "I am going back to the garage tomorrow and I am not going to get my watch. I am going to get my watch. You better tell them."

"And must I get when I went back there wasn't any trouble. Everything was all right like a strawberry festival. They hand me my watch and I pay nothing."

"So what about the letter?" I suggested.

"The letter," said Mr. Coughlin, "contains a suggestion that a public sound be established for recovered stolen cars so this tip racket can be abolished. In this letter I advised the police commissioner that it will not be long before they are hiring people to steal cars and abandon them near the garage in the racket. The whole thing, of course, is premised on the fact that the insurance companies have to stand the gain on the expenses incurred."

"Mr. Coughlin," I said, admiringly, "I certainly think you are one grand guy to go to all that trouble and everything to save the insurance company the 10 per cent."

"Oh, that," said Mr. Coughlin, "Well, I will tell you. I did not have any theft insurance on that Rover."

Overripe in Revere

"Now this garage," he continued, "was exactly one nickel removed from where the police found the car. I go to this garage and I find one of my cars. It is a separate room under lock and key. Now this is not such a car as deserves being kept in a separate room under padlock, as you will readily see, and so I sell an ender."

"Something rotten in Denmark," I suggested.

"Oh," he amended, "ripe in Revere. Anyway, they tell me I can have my car, but there are costs to pay for lifting and towing and storage, one block, four hours. The costs come to $10, they say."

"So I said that I was not buying any new car, just getting my old one back, and that it is down-hill one block to the garage from where it was found and my new baby could have pushed it. But they have the cars. They want $10. I ask to look at my car and they unlock the door and I jump into the seat. Alas, I had forgotten it was out of gas. 'Get out,' says the garage man. 'This is my property,' says I.

"Finally I get smart. I say I have not got $10 with me, which is no lie, and I offer my watch. My watch is a very good watch and it will be going along after the car has stopped. They take the watch, I take the car and drive away."

Threat Made Good

"I drive," said Mr. Coughlin, to the police station. I see the chief. I say, I have got my car and they have got my watch and it is time for this chiseling racket to stop. There is a pun there if you are quick enough. I said, "I am going back to the garage tomorrow and I am not going to get my watch. I am going to get my watch. You better tell them."

"And must I get when I went back there wasn't any trouble. Everything was all right like a strawberry festival. They hand me my watch and I pay nothing."

"So what about the letter?" I suggested.

G. O. P. Repents Much Too Late

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Why does the administration suddenly turn highest in its last 30 days on government earth?

The Republicans have been in Washington a long, long time. So long that they think home, sweet home, means the White House and the garage.

They're like the commandment of the navy yard who lived on public property so long he would fit to his relative.

This Republican stretch has lasted 12 years with no time off for good behavior. And you can hardly blame the boys for not wanting to hand their freight at this time.

But their furious struggles to stay in office are reminiscent of the faithful bank cashier who refused to take a vacation. He didn't want anybody looking over his books.

RICHMAN STORE HEADLINES N. E. PRODUCTS

Warm tribute was paid today to New England thrift and products by Charles L. Richman of Cleveland, president of Richman Bros. Co., men clothiers with a store at Bedford and Washington sts. and 41 other stores throughout the country.

"Our organization rates New England woollens so highly," said Mr. Richman, "that practically all of our cloth for suits, topcoats and overcoats is made in New England mills. We find that New England woollens retain their firmness and are durable. They satisfy us, and what is more important, they satisfy our customers."

Mr. Richman came to Boston for a two-fold purpose—to make a tour of inspection and to greet his Boston employees. He was bubbling over with optimism.

"Times are getting better," he said. "Business is picking up. Our sales are the best evidence. Figures don't lie. The evidence is that the public like facts. A careful check shows that we sold 25 per cent more suits and top coats last week in the same stores than we sold the corresponding weeks of 1931."

GAINS IN ALL CITIES

"The gain in our St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha stores, was 41 per cent. In our Chicago, Dayton, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Louisville stores the gain was 37.4 per cent. In our Chicago and Milwaukee stores there was a 30 per cent increase. "Our St. Paul and Minneapolis stores showed a 23.8 per cent increase, our Cleveland, Akron and Youngstown stores, 20.7; our Buffalo, Erie and Pittsburgh stores, 12.5; and our Toledo and Detroit stores, 10 per cent. Our mail orders from every section of the United States increased 22 per cent."

"The people have bought sparingly for three years. Clothes are worn out. The public will profit by buying now before prices jump. Increased clothing sales mean an increase in orders for cloth, lining, cotton goods, canvas and buttons, and more jobs. Increased purchases create a demand which boosts prices."

NEVER MORE FOR MONEY

"We have served the public since 1878, through good times and bad, and I never recall that patrons could get more for their money in fabrics, style and workmanship."

President Richman is known as "Mr. Charley" to his many employees. He works among them and knows their problems. He has been identified with the clothing business since he was 15.

He calls most of his employees in Cleveland by their first names. Some families have been employed in the Richman Cleveland factory for several generations. There has never been a strike there.

President Richman's 60th birthday was marked by a gala celebration. A big album containing the birthday congratulations of every employee was presented to President Richman. Noah Tallon, who acted as spokesman, said:

"We come to you not as employee to employer, but as one friend to another, for you have always been that to us."

WIRE FROM BISHOP

Mr. Richman has placed among his most treasured souvenirs a telegram from Bishop Schrembs of Cleveland, which reads:

"I am pleased, on this, your sixtieth birthday anniversary, to congratulate you and wish you many more years of service and happiness as the leader of one of Cleveland's greatest business institutions."

"JOSEPH SCHREMS, Bishop of Cleveland."

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

Saves 32. So Easy! No Cooking!

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in more homes than any other cough remedy, because it gives more prompt, positive relief. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pineapple Juice and grasshopper syrup to make a full pint. Syrup is easily made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes fine.

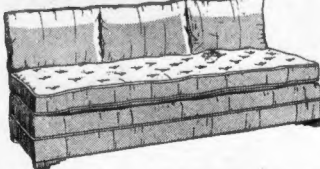

Instantly you feel the penetrating effect of the pine-grasshopper mixture, clears the air passages, and soothes and breaks the inflamed membrane. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief in severe coughs.

Pine is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, used for generations for its healing effect on throat membrane. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

With GEORGE UNDERWOOD—
Sharkey Is Mooseless. Meet Moose Majesty.
And We, Too, Brother! Also Hookem Charlie.
List' to Tale of Woe. And—Mister Skunk.

Here's a Hunting Yarn With Sex Appeal

JACK SHARKEY is just back from a mouse hunt in New Brunswick with two fine deer but no mouse. We can sympathize with Jack. We have hunted mouse many times, but the only one we ever bagged was after simply hopping off a lumbercamp sled as his Moose Majesty calmly was browsing on the spruce shoots alongside the tote road and bringing him down with all the skill it takes to get in a barnyard and shoot a cow. Whenever we went "calling" or still hunting, for mouse we invariably were stung. There was that big fellow thrashing through the thick bush on the Shawanaga, knocking his huge horns against the trees with such abandon and vehemence you could hear his clear across the river. Suddenly he appeared silhouetted in a patch of moonlight on a pebbly beach not more than 50 yards away. The easiest of shots. But just as we poked our rifle through an opening in the underbrush a cloud came over the moon and, where his Moose Majesty was two seconds before, was just a blur in the darkness. Couldn't see either sight or gun. Couldn't coaxive how he could miss him, however, so "blasted away." He reared up on his hind legs until he looked as tall as the Capitol dome, wheeled and went lumbering, crashing away in the pines. Next morning Henry LeGage and I followed his trail for half a mile. Not a sign of the tall red. A clean miss!

DIDJA EVER HEAR of a hunter losing a mouse all an account of an angry skunk? We too, one that way, and one of the finest tales that ever was seen, too, horse four and a half feet across if they were an inch. When you get a mouse with a Minich spread, boy, it is some mouse! And only for that pesky, pestiferous, angry skunk! Listen to our tale of woe.

"WHILE TENDING my trap line," remarked Henry LeGage, "I saw a mouse track over on the shore of Long Pond as big as an elephant's. Why don't you and Hookem Charlie go calling for that big bull tonight!"

Hookem Charlie was the 21-year-old son of LeGage. He was called Hookem Charlie because of his habit of shouting everything that was said down. That breed boy certainly had taking ways! In addition to his confidant abilities, Hookem Charlie was a good mouse caller. At three was the mouse foot country.

When Hookem Charlie put that birch horn to his lips he could raise such mouse challenges that every bull in the Shawanaga would self-laurel, and, boiling with rage, would come a running. Hookem Charlie rose to his greatest heights when imitating the loveless squeal and grunts of the cow. The best mouse callers imitate the cow, not the bull. You can entice your bull mouse mouse through sex appeal than you can through challenge to battle. Hookem Charlie could make every bull in the woods think it was Venus herself that was calling him the "Come to my arm, darling!" You never heard such alluring, lady-like grunts and squeals.

LONG POND in the moonlight. The early October moon, a great golden orange, is just showing above the pines and silencing the lake. We are in a little cove of birches on a narrow thumb-shaped point, 50 feet long and less than 20 feet wide, that sticks out into the lake. The thickly screened and wooded shore for a game trail that leads almost down the center of the narrow point to the water, we can command a long stretch of lake above with the big pond, the moon, the love so well. Remember the layout and topography. On with the hunt.

THAT'S HOOKEM CHARLIE calling now. Ever hear a mouse call? They don't grunt, squeal, or whine. They just make a short, sharp, grating sound. Hookem Charlie is screaming in a hoarse, throaty bark, like a short grunt. Hookem Charlie is screaming in a hoarse, throaty bark, like a short grunt. Hookem Charlie is screaming in a hoarse, throaty bark, like a short grunt.

MOOSE EXCHANGE of love talk. Nearer and nearer comes the bull. We can hear him lumbering through the thick bush knocking the tree trunks with his horns. Suddenly he breaks from the darkness of the pines right into a splash of moonlit beach not 60 yards away. And oh what a mouse! Looming there in the moonlight he looked like the King of all the mice on the Shawanaga. We waited for him to wobble about so we could get a shot at his left forehead. And then that pesky skunk!

RIGHT in the middle of the narrow trail, not ten feet away, rooting for grub or fungus on a fallen log was Mister Skunk. We knew if we kept still he would not molest us and in a few minutes would wander away. We knew if we made a quick movement or pulled trigger on the gun, the wind blowing directly from him to us, Mister Skunk would springle us with! The King of All The Mice standing within easy rifle shot! Imagine our agony! The big bull was nearer Hookem Charlie than he was us. He must have caught a scent of the grease on Hookem Charlie's shoe pack. Anyway he lifted his head, sniffed suspiciously in Charlie's direction, galvanized into sudden action and—went crashing right away from there!

UP THE NARROW game trail stumbled Hookem Charlie giving us Hall Columbia.

"You dem fool! You blind? Why you let hem get away? You dem fool!"

We had no time to warn Hookem Charlie of the presence of Mister Skunk, as he came up the path yelling his anathemas. The skunk "yell" first!

"Sacre Dame! Nonne du Diable!"

We soon heard such a mixture of French-Indian swearing in all your life!

THAT'S HOW we lost the biggest mouse in the North Counties for all time and the friendship of Hookem Charlie for several days. Despite Mister Skunk, Hookem Charlie made up with us. A pint of good red likker will make any Injun forget and forgive almost any insult.

Facts You Might've Missed
In a circular stadium, such as the Yale Bowl, the fans on the 30 yard line are much closer to the 100 yard line than they are to the 10 yard line. Obviously, but have you heard the latest gasp of the "New Haven" Yale supporters? The Harvard's opponents supply the punch. The Yale supporters, Mr. Burgh's big Californian arm, couldn't make the freshman crew, because, the Yale, which is supposed to be the best of baseball should interest in a gate standpoint this season than anywhere else in the country. — Arthur Little, who is St. George's news

Madigan to Take Major's Place at Fordham

By BILL GRIMES

As a fitting climax to his farewell appearance in Boston as a football coach, Maj. Frank W. Cavanaugh will endeavor to manufacture his Fordham Rams to their fourth consecutive victory over Boston College next Saturday at University Heights.

Against the advice of his physician, "Cav" returned to Fordham this fall. He is still in poor health and this is positively his final season as a football manager anywhere. "Slip" Madigan, former Notre Dame star who has been remarkably successful at St. Mary's College, California, will succeed Cavanaugh as head coach at Fordham, and incidentally will fail to be the only team to score a victory over the Rams' former coach.

TO A LION-CAV'S FAVOR
The Boston College-Fordham game will mark the fifth time that Maj. Cavanaugh will meet grid with his former pupil, Joe McKenney. Four years ago, when the Rams were at their best, Cavanaugh's birth at the Heights, the only team to score a victory over the Rams' former coach.

During "Cav's" five years at Fordham, the Rams have lost 10 games. As football was at low ebb when the Major went to Fordham, it took him two years to build a machine, during which time the Rams suffered ten defeats. Fordham won without a loss in 1929, lost only in St. Mary's in 1930, and (Ruckelshaus) the only team to score a victory over Fordham last season.

BOTH DEFEATED
Due to the fact that Boston College lost to Marquette and Fordham dropped a tough game to Michigan State last Saturday, the coming Eagle-Rams battle will be the most bitterly fought yet in the history of the rivalry.

With its abundance of high class talent, Fordham has a decided edge over Boston College. There are at least two and, in many cases three and even four top notch players fighting for every position on the present Fordham team. Competition is so keen that no player is sure of his job and some letter men have been unable to make the roster.

"Cav" has molded two eleven year high caliber. Most of the experts and scouts share the opinion that the so-called second team is more formidable than the varsity, but everyone agrees that the popular Major has been unable to make the roster.

B. C. LACKS MATERIAL
On the other hand, Boston College is noticeably short of talent this season. The loss of Harry Downes, an All-America center, left a gap which the Eagles have been unable to fill. Unlike Fordham, there is not sufficient competition at the Heights this season to generate the proper material attitude among the players. As a result, many of last year's regulars are not back.

Since the Marquette game, Coach Madigan has shaken up the varsity as much as is possible under the existing conditions. Tool and Killeen, ends, have been dropped to the second team, and Jundell and Conner have been moved to the varsity wing berth.

It is dividing the left end berth with Paul Donohue, who, unless he has a decided brace, will be relegated to the scrubber. Also Johnny Dugan is in danger of being replaced by Bob Curran, a sophomore, while Tom Blake stands to break into the first varsity backfield.

B. C. Hears Plea of Forgotten Fans; Lowers Grid Prices
An orchid for the Boston College Athletic Association. Realizing that the price of football tickets, like everything else, should be reduced in these parlous times, the athletic authorities at the Heights announce that almost 6000 seats in the new alumni stadium will be placed on sale for the Eagle-Fordham game Saturday at a new low price of $1 a seat.

Much has been said at various colleges about the advisability of lowering the cost of admission to grid contests, but Boston College is the first in the East to actually give the public a "break."

STREET GLAD TO HAVE 'RAJAH'
St. Louis, Oct. 21 (AP)—The return of Rogers Hornsby to the St. Louis Cardinals Club after a season's absence has been hailed as a triumph for the National League circuit. A Carlini, some of Manager Gabby Street's problems in reorganizing the former world champions for next year's pennant race.

Leading the powerful batting attack of Chick Harley, and with Spaulding, Breeding, predicted that Hornsby will be the second-best bet in the National League circuit. Street was confronted with the problem of reorganizing the team.

Hornsby set off the club mightiest ace for next year. Street said in discussing the announcement of the signing of the "Rajah" by the Cardinals on an one-year contract.

The hole at third base, with Adams gone, is wide open. But Hornsby is a second baseman, President Sam Breadon predicted that Hornsby will be the second-best bet in the National League circuit.

MOULDER LOST TO GRID FOREVER
Los Angeles, Oct. 21 (AP)—Orville Moulder, one of the greatest quarterbacks the University of Southern California ever had, was suddenly pushed out of the football picture by the injury line.

The slight but staunch signal shooter was ordered off the gridiron by school officials to avoid possible paralysis, or even death.

Moulder was knocked unconscious in Southern California's game against Stanford last Saturday while leading interference. In the play he hurt against the tussles which held together the fifth and sixth variables in his neck, putting them slightly apart.

The original injury occurred a year ago when he was struck on the neck in a pile-up that followed a plunge with the ball against California. Moulder was out of competition two weeks.

Dr. Peckham Thuermer, team physician, said, "The injury was a crushing of the intervertebral discs between the two vertebrae. This condition, coupled with a certain amount of relaxation of the neck ligaments, made Moulder more susceptible to serious injury."

"There really isn't much a fellow can do," Moulder commented. "I have heard about seven years to make my senior year the biggest and best of my college career, and it is awful to have to go out like this, but I am convinced it is the right thing to do."

Coach Howard Jones always resented Moulder's players and Moulder "one of the greatest quarterbacks I ever coached. I have never seen a better ball carrier any place, but the last thing I would do would be to sacrifice a boy to win a football game. For his sake I hate to see him drop out."

Schaaf Ruled Too Good for Winston
This is the third of a series of four articles in which Edward Schaaf (Unknown) Winston tells his life story to Jack Conroy.

By UNKNOWN WINSTON
After I knocked out "One Punch" Williams in a round, Homer C. Rainault matched me to meet Ernie Schaaf in a ten-round bout at West Springfield. The show was to be staged in conjunction with the American Legion.

There was an advance sale of 5000 when the Boxing Commission stepped in and declared I was not a fit opponent for Schaaf. At the time Ernie was rated as the world's third leading heavyweight. Yet I felt I had the ability to give him a hard battle.

Rainault fought against the ban on a hard battle. I was out of the fight for several months.

Following the banning of my bout with Schaaf, I stopped Jerry Garfield of New York in two rounds at Holyoke. I injured both of my knees in this tussle, but kept fighting as I needed the money. For cops cost money while one needs a little jack when the other fellow rolls a natural.

I was signed to meet Tom Kirby in a ten-round bout in Boston. In the first round, I crashed a right hand punch to the jaw, and Kirby hit the canvas. "You went down for a count of nine. When he got up, he went on the defensive. I chased Kirby for the rest of the bout. I never could understand how the officials gave Kirby the decision.

I was taken ill with pneumonia a few days after my bout with Kirby. When I was able to leave the hospital, I went to my rounds at Holyoke. I felt I was in a bad way.

CASEYS TO TAKE ON FITTONS

MOONEY REPORT HITS HARD AT PROSECUTION

New York, Oct. 26 (AP)—The report of a sub-committee of the Wisconsin commission dealing with the Billings-Mooney bombing case was published today with an introduction, in which Senator Baruch, H. Wheeler of Montana expressed the hope that the publication would aid in freeing three victims of judicial tyranny and ending from the national recollection this stain.

The authors of the report were Dr. Zachariah Chaffin, Jr., of Harvard Law School, Carl Riess and Walter Pollack. The sub-committee was headed by Federal Judge W. R. Kenyon of Iowa.

"When the Kenyon report appeared on Aug. 18, 1931," Wheeler wrote in the introduction, "this portion of the report's work had been so far as the public was concerned, suppressed."

"It should have been published with the original Billings-Mooney report after a full and free consideration of the report and its conclusions."

"There has never any scientific method made in either the investigation or the prosecution of the crime. The investigation was really turned over to a private detective, who used his position to cause the arrest of the defendants."

"After the arrest of the defendants, witnesses were brought to the jail to identify them, and their 'identifications' were accepted by the police and the prosecution, despite the fact that these witnesses were never required to pick the defendants out of a lineup."

"Witnesses were coached to a degree that approximated submission of perjury. There is a strong inference that some of this coaching was done by prosecuting officials."

"The prejudice against the defendants, stimulated by newspaper publicity, was further appealed to at the trial by unfair and intemperate arguments by the attorneys of the prosecuting attorneys."

How Nominees Stand In Nation-Wide Poll

Washington, Oct. 26.—The tabulation that follows shows the total vote thus far recorded for President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt in the nationwide Presidential poll of the Boston Evening American in co-operation with all other Hoovers, evening and Sunday papers in the United States.

It also shows the majority each candidate has in each State in which he is leading.

In addition, it gives the gain of each candidate on the latest returns received from each State, as compared with the last preceding report from the State. These State reports are usually a week apart.

The first finding of this issue shows the net gain of each candidate in each State where he has improved his position, as compared with the last preceding report from that State.

WOMAN TELLS OF GIANT FIGHT

Charles Merriam, 35, giant of Columbia Ave. South End, went on trial today in Superior Court, charged with assault and battery, with a dangerous weapon on Galen Gough, professional strong man and wrestler, of Revere.

According to testimony by Mrs. Virginia Lodge Taylor of Commonwealth Ave., Back Bay, Gough and another man accompanied her to a restaurant at Massachusetts and Columbus avertis, early in the morning of June 11, 1931, and Gough and Merriam became engaged in a slugging remark.

The said one saw a shiny object appear in Merriam's hand, and then Gough exclaimed that he had been hit. He was treated at City Hospital for a slashed hand.

Three Bound, Gems Stolen

New York, Oct. 26 (AP)—Three robbers forced their way into the home of Neil J. Merino in Brooklyn today, tied Mrs. Merino by the wrists and stole $10,000.

Fireman a Hero at Roosevelt Meeting

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 26 (AP)—An unidentified fireman has been revealed as the hero of a blaze backstage in the Atlanta Auditorium Tuesday while Gov. Roosevelt delivered a campaign address to thousands.

So quickly did the fireman work and so efficient was his method, that none in the audience were aware of anything out of the ordinary had taken place.

The fireman saw a shiny object appear in Merriam's hand, and then Gough exclaimed that he had been hit. He was treated at City Hospital for a slashed hand.

TRIO IDENTIFY BOY AS BANDIT

Three Medford storekeepers picked a 17-year-old Charleston boy from a police lineup today as the one who held them up recently at the point of a gun.

The accused youth, John Sullivan of Mystic St., Charleston, was arrested last night by Special Officers Philip Dodge and William J. Collins of the Bark Bay station.

Joseph A. Rooney, 30, of Fredrick Ave., Medford, who first gave his name as Joseph Kelley of Burlington, Police said both carried guns but Rooney was not picked today by any holdup victims.

The storekeepers who selected Sullivan were P. A. Madin of Diocesan St., Medford, proprietor of a store in Summer St.; Medford; William Muldon of Bradford Ave., Medford, proprietor of a store in Harvard St.; Medford, and John J. Cahill of Heald St., North Cambridge, who was held up in his store in Winthrop St., Medford.

"What on earth are you up to now?"

FINDING things out, smarty! I thought I'd examine the tobacco in a cigarette.

"Look here... this is Chesterfield tobacco. Notice its lighter color... you don't see any dark heavy types, do you? I guess that's why Chesterfields are milder.

"I'm told that uniformly lighter color is due to cross-blending. It sort of welds all the tobaccos into one.

"And here's something else. Notice that these long shreds are all cut the same width. It stands to reason they burn smoother and cooler.

"I don't pretend to be an expert but it looks to me as if they make Chesterfields right.

"Here, light one. That's the best test after all. They Satisfy."

PACIFIC COAST FOR ROOSEVELT
By COLE E. MORGAN
Universal Service Correspondent
Washington Oct. 26.—The Pacific Coast with the election less than two weeks off, can be counted beyond any question of doubt for Governor Roosevelt.

California has in prospect a half million Democratic majority. Washington looks like a Roosevelt state by approximately 150,000. Oregon seems good for 70,000 on the Democratic side.

But it is a fight for Gov. Roosevelt from now on in the central in electoral states.

Returns of the past week tabulated today in the nationwide presidential postcard poll of the Boston Evening American, in cooperation with all the other Hoovers morning evening and Sunday papers in the United States, showed President Hoover leading in the new ballots from Delaware, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana and Illinois. Gov. Roosevelt led in Maryland.

In Ohio Hoover received a majority of 1129 out of 6621 new ballots. In Pennsylvania he made it 946 out of 3914. In Illinois margin was 217 out of 2903. In Indiana it was 81 out of 1677. In Michigan it was 82 out of 1701 and in Delaware four out of 60.

Roosevelt obtained a 71 majority out of 213 new Maryland votes. The net result of the Hoover gains in this group of states was to give him a majority of 286 out of the 44,880 new ballots recorded for the country as a whole since last Thursday. This is the first time during the entire progress of the poll that Hoover has obtained even a small margin on a single complete roundup of the country.

With 53,107 total Roosevelt-Hoover ballots now tabulated in the entire poll period, Roosevelt still holds a comfortable majority of 31,965 to Hoover's 21,142. Roosevelt's standing does not appear to be in jeopardy in the poll.

THIS IS LIFE

Changing Times Even Have Effect on Canine Member of Household

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

THIS IS AN OPEN LETTER to my laundry company. Gentlemen, will you please restore the blue paper ribbons wherewith you were wont, in the past, to bind and girdle the bosom of a newly laundered shirt. Nowadays you are using a white cardboard dog, which is a most unbecomingly quite an efficacious from your point of view, and holds the thing in place better, although probably more expensive—but which in other ways is quite unsatisfactory. You see, it's this way. The dog is used to the blue paper ribbon. Ever since she was a pup, the formula has been unvarying. First, I look in two or three wrong bureau drawers for the shirt. The shirt is always in the same drawer. It is perfectly consistent and orderly. It is only I who, in the language of the reverend clergy, am erratic. I find the shirt. I strip the blue ribbon off and throw it in the waste paper basket. At the first crash of my experimental hangings at drawers, the dog barks and dashes from wherever she is to where I am and sits, drooling, while I dispose of the blue ribbon. Then she immediately retrieves it, runs under the bed with it and chews it to pieces.

Blue Ribbon Gives Way to Card

For several years now this procedure has been as the law of the Medes and the Persians, which altereth not. It is as invariable as the law that she shall not be fed at table and the fact that she is fed at table. It is a part of her life, one of her little habits. Last spring my laundry company, with that mania for changing something which is perfectly satisfactory, so characteristic of American business methods, did away with the blue ribbon and substituted a thick and uninspiring band of white cardboard—in which the dog seems to find no aesthetic stimulation at all. Perhaps the laundry magnates made the change because the blue ribbon looked too swanky, too much like an archduke's decoration, too undemocratic, too un-American.

Possibly they did it because the blue paper was not cheap enough. Possibly because they had discovered that people—and dogs—liked the blue ribbon. Almost any reason will do for an efficiency expert. Anyway, the change has broken my little dog's heart and I fear I shall be forced to go hunting for a laundry that still uses blue paper ribbons across the plastron—I believe that is the technical word—or so save the animal from pining away.

So much are we creatures of habit in real life, and so much does the artificial life of business strive to thwart us at every turn in our habit-forming. One would think that William James was the chosen counselor of all people in business. Wasn't it he who said that just as soon as he discovered he had formed a habit he made haste to break it? Anyway, somebody said it—and the result is that my little dog has lost something very beautiful out of a life which after all is not very exciting. Living in a city house, with little to do but sleep and wait for the folks to come home, is rather a dog's life.

But One Example Out of Many

But—alas!—it is only one example out of many. The American business man takes as his motto the old maxim of Heracles, "All is flux" or that other equally old maxim which Lippmann likes to quote in "A Preface to Morals"—"Whirl is king." You can't dip twice running out of the same running stream. All things flow.

Once they delivered your shirt so filled with cunningly placed pins that you spent 10 minutes and much life-blood removing them and then even then you were not sure but that at some particularly important moment in your life you would have to leap to your feet with a stifled yell at a pinprick far worse than what the old Eng. lish poet called the "ayebite of lawit"—"The agan-bite of conscience."

Then they left all the pins out and the shirt unfolded spontaneously and completely in the drawer and emerged full of wrinkles. Then they put a cardboard backer into it, like a Victorian school girl's back-board. Then they took it out again. Then they put on blue ribbon and presently removed it. Now it is the cardboard dog, and I suspect the end is not yet.

Somewhere in the business is one of these geniuses who is paid highly to think up ways of giving an air of novelty, freshness, efficiency, smartness, chic, and technological adequacy to your shirt—be it ever so humble. He spends his time building up habits tracks in his customers and then rubbing them out and building new habit tracks. That way madness lies! That way lies anarchy, confusion, instability, inconsequence—and probably a Democratic President. It is not good to break up the habits of a great people.

Dissatisfaction Present in This Case

The idea is to save the customer trouble and dissatisfaction. But the dog is dissatisfied and I am worried. The dog is worried. She will probably go off her feed and have to be taken to the Angell Memorial, that admirable and charitable institution, for observation. And she will come back all of a jitter, so much so that the mere sight of a market delivery boy in a white coat will send her into paroxysms of alarm and dislike. And then I shall probably have to take her south for the winter.

I might, of course, hunt around in Boston at these stores where you buy fancy papers, with a sample in hand, and procure several reams of the right kind of paper. Then, after the dog is in bed, I could sit up and make the little hands and laboriously slip them over the clean shirts. I may be driven to that yet, but it seems to me a heavy price to pay merely for the encouragement of the craze for novelty and change and efficiency in American business.

But the shirt-washers are only initiating the shirt-makers. I was brought up on the dress shirt that buttoned in back. It took me years to get used to the dress shirt that buttoned in front. Then they switched again, and when I try to buy what I still think of as the "new" dress shirt, that buttons in front, they look at me as if I am Rip Van Winkle or something. Maybe by now they have invented a dress shirt that fastens up the side with zippers.

All is flux, and Heracles, and you can't break the racket!

COHEN, HELD IN KIDNAPING PLOT, TALKS

SECRET? OF COURSE NOT

TELLS ON RALS WILD CARGO

By FRANK BUCK With EDWARD ANTHONY

IN RACKET, BELIEF
Seized at Walpole on Woman's Tip, He is Identified by Rutstein

Maurice Cohen of Dorchester arrested on a "tip" from a woman as the fourth alleged member of the kidnap gang that held Herman Rutstein for $20,000 ransom, voluntarily submitted to questioning by Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Dyer today after undergoing grilling at police headquarters.

It was listed that he had supplied valuable information that might lead to the capture of all members of the gang, although he made a denial when Rutstein identified him as one of the kidnap group.

Cohen was taken to the district attorney's office by Const. John J. Anderson, Lieut. George Augusta and Inspector Goddard, Goldstein and Drerick.

EXPECT ARRESTS SOON
Police officials said that regardless of any information that Cohen may have given, the arrest of two untried members of the gang is only a question of time, as they are known. Both are described as "killers."

Raiders who cornered Cohen in a lodging house in Walpole admitted that a woman supplied the "tip" leading to his arrest.

Cohen was plainly in great fear that he would be put on the spot by questions and seemed to have been when safe in the custody of the police. He was taken to Boston headquarters and placed in a lineup for viewing by Rutstein, who was rescued from his captivity by Hull police after being held five days in a Nantasket cottage.

IDENTIFIED BY RUTSTEIN
"That's one of the men," said Rutstein, according to police, as he picked Cohen from the lineup.

"I remember the wrinkles on his face and I remember his voice. He is one of the men who was about in the room with me at Nantasket at different times. I asked him to open the window and he said:—

"Sure, I'll open it a couple of inches, but pretty soon you'll be asking me to take you for a walk."

BANKER WEDS SECRETLY

Ray R. Rideout, 35-year-old banker, and his Woburn bride of 25, just couldn't understand why their marriage last November could be called secret.

Rideout married Ruth Akeson Woburn High School graduate, in Jersey City, N. J., last November in the office of a New Jersey judge.

They didn't tell too many about it but one couldn't say that was secrecy.

The bridegroom, a former official of three Somerville banks and recently divorced from his first wife, returned from New Jersey to make his home with the bride's mother in Sherman st., Woburn.

Shortly after he was wed he faced Middlesex court on indictments that followed the closing of the Highland Trust Co. of Somerville. The indictments were not pressed.

Mrs. Rideout pointed out today that she has grieved all summer at a Lowell country club and always registered as "Mrs. Rideout." In January she changed the registration of her automobile to that name.

But there were many friends of the couple who said they knew nothing of the wedding. Probably that's what made it secret.

Auto Wrecked Few Minutes After Theft

Within a few minutes after it had been stolen from in front of his home in Lyndhurst st., Chelsea, a large sedan owned by License Commissioner Daniel J. Mullans of Chelsea was demolished when it was run off a cliff at the end of Middleville ave. Reverse and drive. An embankment of 25 feet into yard off Winthrop st. has left the machine torn away part of the piazza of a house.

Pet Honey Bears Are Greatest Clowns of Animal World

The greatest clown of the animal world is a honey bear that has been raised as a pet. Tame monkeys know plenty about the art of clowning, especially the little rhesus fellows from India, but honey bears are their superiors in the field of plan and fancy comedy. Call the lion the king of beasts and I'll probably pick an argument with you; but name the honey bear as court jester and you'll find me in perfect accord.

The honey bear is the smallest member of the bear family—a coal-black ball of fur which as a new cub resembles in size and shape a Chow puppy. Full-grown, he is about one-third the size of our American black bear.

WRONGLY NAMED
There are several animals that are erroneously known as honey bears, among them the Kinkajou of South America, the Himalayan prade, the slow loris of Asia and the Australian koala bear. None of these are true bears, the last named being the only one that is even remotely related to the bear family. The true honey bear is to be found only in the Malay Peninsula, Sumatra, Borneo and adjacent islands. And as I've said he is the greatest comedian in the animal world.

The prize clown of all the honey bears I've handled—and I've brought many of them to this country—was a lovely little rogue who came to be known as Toot. A victim to my compound insisted that the animal was as like the famous circus clown of

They are Ray Spencer, Greenwood st., New York city, who was free on $1000 bail, and Philip Pike, Huntington ave., Back Bay, who had been released on $500.

Car Found in Quarry; Tragedy Is Fared

A possible tragedy was feared today when Motorcycle Officer Ernest H. Quincey of the Quincy police notified a "buried" car in a quarry off Forest st., Quincy. Number plates of this year's issue could be seen from the surface of the water, but the number could not be made out.

It was feared to send a diver in to find the number and see if anyone might have met death in the car.

Maurice "Morey" Cohen, seized as the "steer" man of the gang that kidnaped Herman Rutstein and held him captive in Nantasket, Cohen, manacled, is shown at headquarters today after he had been arrested in a hideout in Walpole. (Staff photo.)

BEACON HILL

A MID A BLARE OF TRUMPETS the Boston Horse Show got off to a good start last evening... tributes should be paid to the efficient and hard-working committee who again wrote a page in equine history...

We arrived on the scene early to set up the cameras... peek about to see who had taken boxes... go out into the stable to look the entries over and renew a few old acquaintances among the officers in charge... we adore the honey set so sincere and genuine and hail, fellow, will meet!

The galleries filled early, no doubt to see the ermine and purple trail in... which they did after nine. There were scores of dinner parties on the evening's program and from what we observed they were very chery...

Eleanor Sears Among Early Arrivals
AMONG THE FIRST TO ARRIVE was that prince of the sport world, Eleanor Sears... and we mean that in its most complimentary sense... She was escorted by the tall and handsome Maj. Henry Leonard and they were having a hilarious time...

On the arm of the debonair George, her attractive husband, Mrs. George von L. Meyer, Jr., chic and witty, hurried through the throng... bent on seeing the whole show... her black and white ensemble was very becoming...

A Trio of Debs From Concord
THREE DEBUTANTES FROM CONCORD shied away from the cameras... they will get over that stage, we hope... they were Constance Babcock, red-headed and striking... Elise Emerson, sleek and blonde, and Mary Bigelow, dark and pretty... The Coolidge party came en famille... Mrs. Harold J. Coolidge very jolly in green satin with lovely Chinese embroidered wrap... Mrs. Lawrence Coolidge, her daughter-in-law... a luxuriant mink, a very lovely light-haired girl... Mrs. H. Jacobs, Jr., in red Chinese coat which quite became her exotic type... Mr. Carl Gilbert was in their party and the tall, interesting Lawrence Smith Butler from New York...

How about a revival of "An Ever Miss the Water Till the Well Runs Dry," by Rowland Howard, 1887? It goes something like this:
When I said I was living at Lincoln (Nebraska) with my parents on the farm, The lesson, that my mother taught to me were quite a charm; She would often take me on her knee when I was tired of childish play, And as she pressed me to her breast, I've heard my mother say:

(Chorus)
Waste not, want not, is a maxim I would teach;
Let your watchword be despatch and practice what you preach;
Do not let your chances like sunbeams pass you by,
For you never miss the water till the well runs dry.

Then I studied street economy, and found to my surprise, My funds, instead of sinking, Very quickly then did rise; I grasped each chance, and always struck the iron while 'twas hot; I seized my opportunities, and never once forgot.

(Chorus)
